RUDELY CURIOUS

Last sad Rites Over the

REMAINS OF MRS. BOWERS

Yesterday Afternoon, but Hundreds Were Moved by True Sorrow by the Unfortunate Death of the Young Woman-The Scenes at the Home and Grave Were Affecting-A Large Concourse of People Attended.

The exercises attending the funeral of Mrs. Harry Bowers, Sunday afternoon, were very impressive, and an unusually large concourse of people assembled within and without the home of the deceased's parents, Mr and Mrs. Joseph Bero, 3315 Jacob street, from which the funeral occurred. Keen sympathy for the afflicted relatives was shown on the countenances of the many friends of the family and few within the house were not overcome by emotion Curlosity, however, attracted the larger portion of the vast crowd on the the most part of the fair sex, and this intrusion on the grief of the afflicted.

The dead girl lay in a cream plush covered casket in the parlor. She was dressed in white and above her folded hands were the tributes of flowers from friends. At the head of the casket stood a little table, which was a mass of floral tributes, accompanied by the friends. At the head of the casket stood a little table, which was a mass of floral tributes, accompanied by the cards of the senders. The remains were viewed by hundreds and the little parlor walls echoed to many a sob of grief. Sympathy that came from the heart told its mute story aside from kindred expressions of sorrow.

The services were conducted in a room to the rear of the parlor by Rev. R. R. Bigger, of the Third Presbyterian church, and Rev. S. P. Crummett, of the Wesley M. E. church, assisted by the Third Presbyterian church choir. Both reverend gentlemen made fervent prayers, invoking God's grace and comfort on the sorrowing ones in their affliction. During the prayers and the tender hymns there were many moistened eyes, while the grief of the parents and Mr. Bowers was singularly touching.

The house was jammed with people, and at the conclusion of the services, Undertaker Cooey dismissed the crowd that the family might have the final leave-taking alone. Shortly afterward the hearse drew up to the door, and the crush of young girls and women on the sidewalk to get closer required all of Offlicer Meyer's attention. But when Mr. Bero led out his weeping wife, followed by Undertaker Cooey, supporting the arm of Mr. Bowers, passage for them to their cab was almost impossible through the narrow avenue of Easter millinery. This morbid curiosity became disgraceful as the family entered the hack. Young girls and their elders of the same sex massed around the vehicle and so far lost their sense of the fitness of thours as to week the foach. came disgraceful as the family entered the hack. Young girls and their elders of the same sex massed around the vehicle and so far lost their sense of the fitness of things as to press their faces against the glass doors and peer in on the sorrow of the bereaved. "Oh, I wish I was a foot taller," exclaimed a woman to the rear of the struggling mass, when her searching eyes falled to see anything on which to gleat. Necks were craned from adjoining windows, and the curlous throng extended for some distance up and down the street.

Happlig, this was not true of all. True sympathy was extended by hundreds of friends. The long line of vehicles following the hearse to Mount Zion, the place of interment, testified to the esteem in which Mrs. Bowers and the family was held, and it was shown in other respects. The unfortunate affair has evoked many expressions of sorrow and sympathy for the Bero family and the young husband, and similar intrusions of outsfiders often occur on occasions in which there is great public interest.

The funeral services began at the house at 3 o'clock and lasted over an hour. The last rites were paid in the cold sunlight at Mount Zion, and very affecting were the scenes as the casket was lowered to the grave. The pall-bearers were all young men, Messrs. William Kain, John Rennard, Charles Vogley, Henry Yeager, Frank Woods and Ben Speldel.

In Saturday's Intelligencer it was inadvertently stated that Rev. Mr. Bigger performed the ceremony uniting Harry Bowers and Maggie Bero. The officiating minister was Rev. C. B. Graham, of the North Street M. E. church.

FLINT GLASS COMBINE.

It is Off Because the Manufacturers Wanted too Much.
The announcement is made that the most recent attempt to effect a combi-nation of all flint tableware manufacturers, and which was reported to have embraced 98 per cent of all firms in the business, is off for the present. The combination was backed by Laden-burg, Thornhill & Co., bankers, 46 Wall street, New York, and was to require from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000, says China street, New York, and was to require from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000, says China Glass and Lamps. It is stated by those willing to talk on the subject that the prices asked by manufacturers were entirely too high, and out of all proportion to the value of the plants. While this shows that, despite of low prices and very keen competition, manufacturers are not ready to retire from business unless they are pretty well paid for their investment and good will, the refusal of the bankers to be entrapped into paying double value for factories is one of the mest hopeful signs. That the tableware combination will finally go through in some shape very few men doubt, and many manufacturers are willing such a combination as will be able to hold up prices shall be speedily effected. But nothing is more certain than that if exorbitant prices had been paid for everything on which options were taken, very few of the solid and conservative men would have remained, either stockholders, officers or department managers, for any length of time, and both their presence and experience is absolutely necessary for the success of the proposed combination, and these could only be permanently secured by making it an inducement for them to retain financial interest in such combination. But dividends are most certain 4nd regular where no fictitious prices are paid for ill equipped factories, and where salaries are paid for service and not for influence, prestige or decoy duck purposes.

not for influence, prestige or decoy duck purposes.

The refusal of the capitalists handling the scheme to be connected with any baloon business, will, of itself, inspire confidence, and will most certainly commend listelf to the judgment of that class of manufacturers whose leadership and management alone could make the combination successful. With the preliminary brush pile out of the way, and all parties given to understand that it is a business deal and not a stock gambling venture that is proposed we may now look for some sensible work in the trust building line among the tableware manufacturers.

IMPORTANT DECISION

Handed Down by Supreme Court. Mandamus Asked for by Public Printer Refused - Other Opinions

Rendered. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 2.— The supreme court yesterday handed down an opinion refusing to grant the writ of mandamus applied for in the name of A. G. Miller, public printer, to have its printing done by the public

The court also refused the similar mandamus applied for by John T. John-son, public stationer.
The mandamuses were applied for to son, public stationer.

The mandamuses were applied for to test the question whether the various state offices and institutions could be compelled to give their printing and stationery patronage according to the state contracts. Since 1897 several of these institutions, including the State University, have been having their printing done according to private contract, basing their action on-the provisions of the appropriation bill setting aside for each of them a special fund for the purpose. The decision practically leaves it optional with the officers and institutions whether they will comply with the public printing and stationery contract.

In his syllabus, Judge Brannon says:

"A mere private contract will not be enforced by mandamus.

"As the state cannot be sued, mandamus or other process will not lie against state officers or boards to compel them to execute an executory contract between an individual and the state. Though the state is not in name a party such suit is against it within the meaning of the provision of the constitution prohibiting suit against the state."

Composition of the Famous New Food.

Food.

A widespread interest has been created among good livers, as to the composition of Grape-Nuts, the new food that has come late popular use of late. It has long been known to physicians, chemists and food experts, that the starchy portion of entire wheat flour and barley is transformed into a true and very choice sugar, by the act of intestinal digestion in the human body. This sugar is identical with, and is known as grape-sugar, and it is in conknown as grape-sugar, and it is in con-dition for immediate transformation in Grape-Nuts are probably entitled to the claim to be the most perfectly adapted food for human needs now ex-tant. Certain it is that the user's delight in the flavor and the perfect action of intestinal digestion during the use of Grape-Nuts is satisfying, and the added strength of body confirms the fact.

EASTER SUNDAY

In Wheeling was the Occasion of Cold Weather - Large Congregations at Weather - Large Congregations at All the Churches.

Easter Sunday in Wheeling was signalized by cold and brilliant sunlight which detracted somewhat from the millinery display, yet the streets presented an animated maze of colored headgear and new spring suits. The atmosphere was decidedly cool, but fashion was not to be denied. churches attracted large congregations of worshippers and specially prepared programmes of music were rendered from choir rails banked in a profusion of Easter Illies and other flowers.

The tie-up of the Wheeling & Elm Grove rallway, occasioned by the strike, limited the attendance at the city churches of out-the-pike people, who were thefore forced to grace Stone church, at Elm Grove, or the Vance Memorial church, at Leatherwood, with the latest in bonnets, if the suburbanite didn't care to be left out altogether. At all the churches the services were of an elaborate character, the music in each instance being a feature. The Knights Templar service at the First. Christian church was attended by Christian church was attended by Wheeling and Cyrene commanderles in full uniform, and they were addressed by Sir Knight C. M. Oliphant. No evening service was conducted at 8t. Mat-thew's P. E. church, but services in the forenoon were held at 6:30, 8 and 10:30 a. m. At 8t. Luke's and 8t. Andrew's elaborate Easter services were the rule. elaborate Easter services were the rule. A very pretty ceremony was the procession of the young ladies' sodalities in the afternoon at St. Alphonsus German Catholic church, the young ladies wearing white veils. The pastors of the various churches in most cases abstained from sermons in the evening, giving way to the musical programmes, but discourses pertaining to the Resurrection were the order of the day in the morning.

At the German M. E. Church.

The Easter sunrise prayer meeting at a. m., at the German M. E. church. was fairly well attended by the Epworth League. The missionary collection in the Sunday school amounted to $35. Miss Bessie Wincher delivered an address on "The Religious Condition of Cuba and the philippine Islands," and the pastor spoke on "The Progress of Mission in India." The sermon at 10:30 a. m. was delivered to a large audience Mr. William Schulz conducted the musical part of the meeting of the League at 7 o'clock in the evening. The praise service of sacred song and music at 7:30, under the direction of Mr. Albert Metzner, was largely attended and a great success. The splendid floral display was much admired. On account of the Serious illness of his mother-inlaw, Mrs. Daum, the superintendent of the Sunday school was prevented from attending to his usual duties on the Sabbath. as fairly well attended by the Epworth

AT FOURTH STREET CHURCH. An Easter Music Service was Last Night's Attraction. The Easter services at Fourth Street

M. E. church last night were attended by a very large congregation. Every pew was taken, the aisles were packed, and many people unable to gain standing room were forced to turn away The pulpit was banked with flowers Easter lilies predominating. The music al feature of the service was very fine and the choir added to its high reputation.

There was no sermon, the pastor, Rev. J. L. Soor, D. D., being assisted in the J. L. Soor, D. D., being assisted in the responsive readings by the church officers, Messrs. W. B. Hicks, Hugh Sterling, George Wincher and Joseph Seybold. The musical programme consisted of selections by the choir and congregational hymns, Director E. R. Bullard had trained the choir carefully, the result of which was shown in the several selections. Splendid selections of the property of the control of the al selections. Splendid solo work was done by Mrs. F. H. Frazier, Mrs. Jesse Morris, Miss Adele Metzner, Mrs. Will B. Day and Mr. Frazier.

Milton B. Mabis Dead.

Saturday afternoon, at the home of his mother, Mrs. A. Mabls, occurred the death of Milton B. Mabis, one of the best known of Wheeling's younger business men, who has been the secretary of the Bremer & Mabis Company since its incorporation. His death was not unexpected, as he was stricken by paralysis several months ago and has since been confined to his home, lingering in a precarious condition. He was prominent in social circles, especially in the Arlon Society. He belonged to Wheeling lodge No. 28, B. P. O. E., under the auspices of which the funeral will take place probably on Tuesday af-ternoon, though the date cannot be fix-ed until the time of the arrival of rela-tives living elsewhere is known.
